

Global aircraft and helicopter brokerage platform

GlobalPlaneMarket.com is a rapidly growing international online platform based in Zurich that facilitates the trading of airplanes, helicopters, engines, and propellers. Since May 2025, it has been the only major sales platform worldwide offering the ability to post listings completely free of charge, without subscriptions, fees, or commissions. The mobile-optimized and scalable platform primarily targets wealthy buyers, companies, as well as marketing and advertising firms, and impresses with its modern design, international reach, and the use of AI to assist with listing.

Compared to existing platforms that charge high listing fees and use outdated systems, GlobalPlaneMarket stands out with a free model and high growth potential. The strategic sale of the established platform offers a rare opportunity to take over a niche platform with immediate advertising and monetization potential and to realize the next scaling step with a marketing or media partner.
